

Julia Norza

IN MY DREAMS

My grandmother's door opens wide like a smile

My father is alive

My grandmother swings me by the fat baby waist

My father stands, and that's enough

I don't know my grandmother's last words

Save that she wanted me to stop being gay

That's what she told my brother

The last thing my father did was beg to die